FRITZ BAUER (1903-1968) LIFE AND WORK

The Fritz Bauer Archive collects and analyzes source material and documents about the life and work of Fritz Bauer, the eminent jurist, Social Democrat, resistance fighter, and Holocaust survivor.

The archive's website is constantly being expanded and updated. Because Bauer's personal papers have been lost, the collection and analyses are unique. The goal of the project is to strengthen the publicity rights of survivors and the right to truth and information.

RAOUL WALLENBERG RESEARCH INITIATIVE 70

The Raoul Wallenberg Research Initiative (RWI-70) is a network of more than 100 interdisciplinary experts who are pooling their research to shed light on the fate of the Swedish diplomat and resistance fighter Raoul Wallenberg, who disappeared in the Soviet Union in 1945. The initiative aims to strengthen the right to truthful information not only for political prisoners such as Wallenberg, but also for their families.

KURT NELHIEBEL

The website documents the life and work of Kurt Nelhiebel, a journalist and author who has supported the fight against war and fascism throughout his life and who won the Culture and Peace Prize of the Villa Ichon (Bremen). Nelhiebel's work presents a moving history of the Federal Republic of Germany from the perspective of a person who knows the meaning of war and the loss of home.

Nelhiebel has given the Fritz Bauer Archive an extensive collection of press clippings about failed denazification, right-wing radicalism, and anti-Semitism. This collection helps explain the persistence of these apparently ineradicable evils of history.
